The Wickedest Man.

I went out the other day to find the wickedest man, and down I ran Rosevelt street, and without extended search, I ran across him. I recognised him at once. He is a burly Russian who would have picked up the average man and dashed him to the earth as the child does a toy. He was frowsy, unkempt, red-faced and full of swagger, and his blood-shot eyes had the look of a wild beast as he surveyed me and growled.

"What are you looking at? go on, or I'll shoot."

He sat down on the step of a run-hole, and I stood a little way off and watched him. A girl seven or eight years old came along with an empty "growler," and he kicked it out of her hand and sent it flying, and then tried to kick her. A Chinaman, delicate and good-natured, came from the other direction with a maul and under its arm and he received a kick which sent him almost to the other curb. Two strong men, passing down the street on the other side, stopped to look, and my wickedest man turned a growl which sent them off in a hurry.

What a husband and father! What love could he feel for wife or child—what pity for the sorrowing—what mercy for one who had angered him! Ah! my fine chap, there's a gloomy prison waiting for you in Centre street—a Judge wearing the black cap—a death chair over which men shudder and turn pale as they remember Kommler. You'll do murder yet, and you'll die the death of a murderer. You feel no degraded brutal condition, and you hate honest, respectable humanity all the more for it. Cast the same mould as your fellow men, given a soul, a heart, a brain, how you might with vigor and muscle and brain, how a part for yourself through the ranks of the most timid and less vigorous? Instead of family seek degradation. Instead of honor you curse all that is noble and good.

Then two things happened at once. A passerby came up the street carrying his flowers, and a hearse drove up to the very door at which I stood. A moment later a man brought out a coffin in his arms—a baby's coffin—and placed it in the hearse. Then a carriage drove up, and a weeping mother and two children came out and got in. There was the bitterness of grief and the sting of poverty combined. I was looking from one scene to the other when my wickedest man arose, halted the flower-seller, and what do you think he did? Struck point-blank! "No; he died, and he made an entry for you!" By the time he had spoken, the carriages had gone, and the hearse had vanished from sight, and in places I found a more thoughtful man than the rest of us—doing what we should have done, speaking words which so touched the heart of the stricken mother that she asked him, "Judge, let him forever!" "A judge not lost ye be also judged." —N. Y. World.

Agricultural Items.

It is stated that California has six ostrich farms.

Sheep husbandry is growing rapidly in South Dakota.

The towns and other mutton breeds are first in Iowa, where sheep are increasing in numbers and quality.

In Wyoming the Jersey and Holstein breeds are most prominent for dairy purposes, while Durhams and Jerseys are preferred for beef.

The eleventh session of the national fair will be held in New York, Nov. 10 for lunch and 10 for the convention will commence Oct. 25.

The failure of the wheat crop in Georgia last year was so nearly complete that a greatly diminished area was the result this year. The present area is considered the smallest of the past fifty years or more.

Dairymen are delighted with the promised provisions for the model exhibit at the Columbian fair. The Board of managers have decided upon the adoption of a central building with its outbuildings and a cover five acres of ground.

Wheat and weather conditions now make it less likely than ever that a surplus will be available. Every person interested ought to have a sufficient supply for his own use, and for insurance against a bad crop.

What he wants to say.

True to Gen. Jackson.

"There used to be an old fellow in my country," said Judge Upton Young to a St. Louis Republic man, who was famous in the early days as a militia colonel. As a drill-master he was perfect and in discipline very severe. Just before the war he had a good millinery company, and he closed every drill with the words, "Forward, march!"

The entire command always voted. But one day one of the soldiers got it into his head that Gen. Jackson was dead, and so at the next drill, when the colonel had given his customary order, this fellow stood stock still. This indiscretion created a momentary panic, but with his face purple with rage, shouted:

"Forward, march!"

THE ADVOCATE.

Edmonds on Blaine

The following alleged interview with Senator Edmonds is going the rounds of the press:

"Everything at Washington is very quiet," said Mr. Edmonds. "I was only there for a few days. I have been in New England for several weeks, and am now on my way to Nashville, Tenn. I never was over this route before, and I thought I would come over it and drop in at Asheville, N. C., and see some much-talked-of mountain scenery."

"Whom do you think will likely be the next Speaker of the House of Representatives in Washington?"

"Crisp, of Georgia, and Mills, of Texas, have large following. From what I can learn, it looks as if Crisp is likely to win. He would make an able presiding officer. Lee Mills and his friends are confident of his success."

"Which of the two, in your opinion, would make the best presiding officer?"

"They are both men of ability," said the Senator in reply. "Crisp is the coolest and Mills the most exciting."

"What do you think of Mills' tariff views?"

"Some of his papers have read are strongly put and forcibly drawn."

"Well, I suppose Mr. Harrison will be nominated by the Republican party for President in 1892, will he not?"

"Yes, it looks so—he wants it. He has recently made a tour of the South and West, and has returned to Washington. He was well received and created in some places some enthusiasm, and much to the surprise of his friends, as well as his political enemies, on his tour he made a number of very good speeches. Blaine could get the nomination if he wished—he could have had it before when Harrison was nominated. Yes, he could get it now. I know Blaine well. Blaine is a sick man. What he wants most is health. He has got Bright's disease—that's his trouble. His health is wretched. He realizes his condition, and is taking no active part in politics, nor is he likely to. Since he has been in Harrison's Cabinet he has devoted his time and attention only to the duties of the Cabinet office. The Reciprocity Treaty is Blaine's work, and whatever others may claim, the credit must be given to him for it. Blaine could get the nomination if he wished, and that is to Blaine. Blaine is one of the strongest men of the Republican party, and if his health would permit him to enter the canvass and he was the nominee of the Republican party, he could be elected."

"Don't you think Harrison could be?"

But at this point the Senator looked out of the window and said:

"Is not that a beautiful view over there?"—and the answer never came.

"Well, who do you think will be the Democratic candidate?"

"Cleveland. He is growing in popularity daily. He is the strongest man in the New England States with his party."

Off Harrison should be the Republican candidate and Cleveland the Democratic candidate, which would likely be elected?"

The Senator was non-committal, but rather intimated that he thought Cleveland's chances of election were better than were Harrison's.

"Senator, what do you think of the Civil party?"

"Oh, it's a short-lived affair; it is likely to last long enough probably to give both parties some trouble. The election of the President may fall to the House of Representatives. No one can tell what their strength may be for a tie. No party can live on the demands that they are making; they are bound to be short-lived. In many sections of the Union where they have strength their leaders are 'soreheads' who have made every effort to get into office and have failed, and now they see that their only political future is with this party. The idea of such men as Jerry Simpson and others being called by the press statesmen! They can talk more 'bosh' to the square inch than any men I ever heard."

"What do you think of the South?"

"I am glad to see its increase in wealth and population. The outlook for the South is bright. Its mining and manufacturing interests are in their infancy."

A traveler who had stopped at a tumble-down log house in a wild part of Kentucky was much disgusted with the corn bread and bacon bacon that was placed upon the table, writes Ophie Reed.

"I don't see how you can stand such fare all the time," said the traveler, speaking to the "faulder."

"Well, mabby yo' ospaint ain't as good as mine. Ef it was, I reckon you could eat it."

"I see a number of chickens in the yard; why don't you kill some of them?"

"They ain't never done me no harm," said the Kentuckian.

"But why don't you eat some of them?"

"Wali, they don't belong to me."

They are man's."

"Why don't you kill one of those young pigs out there?"

"Jes, as soon kill one out there as anywhar, but I didn't got nothin' agin any one of them."

"I mean why don't you eat one of them?"

"Oh, wali, they don't belong to me. Why don't you have turkeys. Why don't you eat some of them?"

"They don't belong to me. They air Bill's."

"Is there anything on the place that belongs to you?"

"Yes; I've got a pint cup."

"Is that all?"

"All!" indignantly exclaims the Kentuckian. "Why, confound you! hide, what's better to drink liquor than a pint cup? Look here; do you think I'm stuck up, an' don't want to associate with my neighbors? Stranger, I'm afraid that if you stay round long you will learn that people have big airs. I reckon you'd better money."

"But I don't want to leave during such weather as this."

"Mister, when the morals of a neighborhood are at stake the weather don't amount to nothin'; you' hose is out than in the stable, an' yaander is the road. Mosey! Man, step out on that turn that bulldog loose."

That evening about six o'clock a weary and drenched man was seen carrying a muddy road.

Italy's Criminal Celebrity.

A criminal with remarkable history has been brought to public notice after a long period of oblivion by the announcement that Domingo Nocella has suffered a second attack of paralysis in prison and is dying. Nocella, who was born in 1808, began his career of crime in 1822 by murdering the Mayor of Grandoli and his brother. He fled to the mountains, where he organized a band of brigands, and for more than five years terrorized the surrounding country, looting diligences, murdering men and assaulting women. It is estimated that by robbery and ransoms he accumulated 1,000,000 francs.

In the summer of 1831 Nocella was seized with an uncontrollable desire to renounce his wild life and join the priesthood. He managed to re-enter civilization undetected and began his studies for the Church at a seminary where the present Pope was also a student at the time. Before completing his studies however, he was recognized by a woman whom he had assaulted in his bandit days. She betrayed him to the police and he was arrested, and clues obtained which led to the arrest and conviction of the men who had followed him in his career of crime. Seven of these were executed; but Nocella in reward for turning State's evidence, was set off with a sentence of life at the galleys. All his bad impulses seemed to return with his reversal of fortune, and he proved a hard prisoner to manage. In 1841 he murdered his warden and in 1845 the prison doctor. Since the last mentioned episode he has not been conspicuous until now.

Mrs. Cleveland.

A little while ago there came a message to certain of the women who are engaged in works of charity, and who at the same time are among those who carry the burdens and favors of social life in New York. This message was one of those delightful hints which matrons hear with a sense of sympathy and gentleness aroused. No more touching message is ever brought to a mother, and with the Freemasonry of her sex, with the tender experiences of maternity teach every mother, the message is communicated by intuition, almost, so that all women who are friends of one another know it, and from every one upon whom the hint is centered that sweetest and most tender sympathy which women who are mothers accord to one another.

No Queen was ever held in greater honor or ever received such tributes of a woman's affection as is the lot of the fair young woman to whom a President of the United States devoted his affection, and who brought to him a greater crown of delight when she became his bride than even the exalted honor which a nation bestowed upon him. And when it is known by the people every where that the time is near at hand when sympathy and prayer and affection, and with all hope and joyful greeting should be extended to those who made possible the life in the White House, a genuine then congratulation will be given.

The event is sure to be the topic of the nation. In the contemplation of it all political differences will be forgotten, and it will even cast a halo over the prosaic strife of party.—New York Press.

Harris Institute.

The next term of my school will open Tuesday, Sept. 1st, 1891. For terms apply to Mrs. L. L. Harris.

Give Sharp, Trimble &amp; Denton a call if you want special bargains in hats, gent's furnishing goods, etc.

Fifteen acres of good grass within 2 miles of the city, not been grazed this season, plenty of water. Apply at this office.

Mr. Thos. Domigan was taken suddenly and severely ill with congestion of the stomach and bowels on Friday morning. He has suffered intensely and is still a very sick man.

Mr. J. D. Wilson has bought the meat shop fixtures of Turley &amp; Laughlin and is to be found, as of old, with the very best meats of all kinds on hand. He is now located at Laughlin's old stand, next door to Sharpe, Trimble &amp; Denton's, on Main street.

Mr. Jacob Trumbo, of this city, and Col. Dan, Runyan, of the Live Stock Record, Lexington, spent Sunday with Capt. James Ewing, of Bath county. They had a very enjoyable time, talking over their old Mexican war memories.

Mr. Mat. J. Holt, son of Chief Justice W. H. Holt, was examined by the Judges of the Court of Appeals on Tuesday and granted a license to practice in Hill City, Kansas, on a two weeks visit to his father's family in this city.

Sidney Johnson and William Reed returned on Saturday from Bethany, W. Va., where they have been attending college.

Mrs. Eliza Fry, of Shely, Indiana, and Mrs. Geo. Haydon, of Clark county, were visiting their sister, Mrs. Kate Smith, the past week.

Mr. L. D. Wilson and his daughter Mrs. T. L. Eastin start to-day on an extended trip to California. They go to visit Mr. Wilson's son Luther.

The entertainment on Thursday night for the benefit of the Library, was a financial as well as social success.

Mrs. Richardson tells us she made about $95 above all expenses.

Mrs. Richardson had worked very hard to make the entertainment a success, and we are glad for her sake that it came off so well.

Mr. J. K. Rodgers says that he has just received a letter from his partner W. A. Crawford, of Staunton, Va., which states that on account of heat, over 1,000 lambs died from Monday morning till Wednesday night and if this weather continues there will be thousands of dollars lost on lamb sales this season.

Mr. Thos. Greenwade and wife, of Frenchburg, were in the city several days last week, completing arrangements for the entertainment of visitors to the District Conference, which meets at Frenchburg to-morrow.

During the session of the Conference the new M. E. church will be dedicated, Rev. R. Hiner preaching the dedicatory sermon. A cordial invitation is extended to every one to attend these services.

Dr. A. Goldstein, the oldest and most skillful optician of Louisville, is stopping at Mrs. Mat. Coleman's. His experience of forty-seven years gives him a great knowledge in his profession. Persons, young and old, whose eyesight is bad and failing, will be benefited. Dr. Goldstein examines the eyes and gives suitable glasses to relieve whatever trouble may be existing. Any call for his services left at Mrs. Coleman's will be promptly attended to.

Col. Thos. Johnson has purchased of Dr. R. P. Guerrant his property on Mayfield street, price $4,000. This sale will not interfere with Prof. Fowler's occupancy of the property, since it was sold subject to his lease.

Money invested in the National Building &amp; Loan Association, of Louisville, pays 12 per cent, net.

A. HOFFMAN, Agt.

Reduced Rates to Frenchburg.

Tickets for the round trip to Rothwell, June 24 and 25th, good until the 26th. The M. E. District Conference convenes at Frenchburg June 24th. Tickets for the round trip only 80 cents, via the Kentucky &amp; South Atch. R. R.

C. F. Keene &amp; Co. keep always on hand the choicest fresh meats.

The commencement exercises of the Public School of this city took place at the Opera-house, Monday night of last week, and the many who attended pronounced the entertainment a decided success. The class of young ladies go out into the world well equipped for the battle of life, and their teacher has every reason to be proud of the work she has done in their behalf. Mr. L. T. Clegg pronounced "the quiet, the best-looking and the most intelligent the Mt. Sterling Publ. Graded School has ever turned out." On this point no one can take him with, but we will go farther and say we believe the school will never have reason to be other than proud of the "Class of '91."

If you want to double your money in a short time, take shares in the National Building &amp; Loan Association, of Louisville.

Genial gentleman and wide awake merchant, Mr. L. M. Morris, has moved from the old Jack Wyatt stand to the large and splendidly appointed store room lately occupied by Friedlander &amp; Marshall on South Main street, where he will be glad to see his many friends. His new quarters will give him ample opportunity to display his goods. He says: "If you want to buy groceries, boots, shoes or gent's furnishings and such like to buy them at prices that will make you money call at the new quarters of W. L. Morris. He always has on hand just what a good housekeeper wants for her table, he handles nothing but the very best in his line."

Cassidy &amp; Smith want you to call on them before you buy your binder twine. They have some specialty feed twine that they are offering very cheap.

Mrs. J. C. Enoch and children are making a visit to Mrs. Enoch's father at Coshocton, Ohio. Mr. Enoch accompanied his family as far as Cincinnati.

Mrs. J. Morgan Wells and children, of Fort Worth, Tex., reached the city Friday evening. They will spend the summer with their mother, Mrs. M. E. Everett.

Mrs. Katie Gay, of Winchester, is visiting her son Robert Gay and other relatives in this country. Aunt Katie is 81 years old, but as healthy and active, twenty years her junior.

Mrs. Wm. and Howard Vanauweren attended the State Dental Convention at Louisville the past week. Both gentlemen, from the printed reports, took a prominent part in the discussions. They came home on Thursday night.

A party of gentlemen were sitting in front of Lockridge &amp; Thompson's stable Sunday afternoon when Mr. W. H. Thompson, cashier of the Traders Deposit Bank, came up and the following dialogue took place between the cashier and Uncle Dind Lockridge:

Mr. Thompson—Uncle Dind you are a thinking man, and a man that reads the bible, I want to ask you a question.

Uncle Dind—I'll try and answer you.

Mr. Thompson—Do you think there will be any babies in heaven?

Uncle Dind—No and d—m few babies.

Mr. Thompson suddenly discovered he had urgent business up street, and Uncle Dind's self-satisfied chuckle followed.

continued to Washington a very large amount.

The failure of the steamer unmooring of a Georgia last year was so great at Pensacola, that a greatly diminished amount by the result that year, a Confederate soldier, or, paralleled from a painting hanging in the Capital at Richmond.

Not until 9 in the evening does Queen Victoria sit down to dinner. Then for a half hour and a half she sits alone, the Queen's apartments to cover five acres, of Majesty 3, of an occurrence but weathered it for a more or less time.

Every person, from a child to a man, ought to have a sufficient amount of time to rest, just as the Queen does.

that this is the case, it can't be helped. No one just seeing how to work the ship, in the street, had to wait for a man, and man, —

Mrs. Rosetta R. Hostetter of Pittsburg, is one of the five richest women in America. She is the widow of the manufacturer of the celebrated biters and enjoys an income larger than that of most crowned heads. She travels a great deal and is accompanied only by a maid and a secretary, who assist her in taking care of the $20,000,000 her husband left.

Walter Woolard, who escaped from a Sunbury county, Tenn., jail, where he had been incarcerated awaiting trial on the charge of stealing a mule, was shot and killed on Wednesday by Deputy Sheriff Jones of Trimble county, Jones fired first, the ball passing through Woolard's stomach killing him instantly.

Senator Vest, notwithstanding his opinion on silver, announces that Mr. Cleveland, in his opinion, will be the head of the Democratic ticket next year. Senator Gorman was at the conference of Cleveland's friends in New York the other day, consulting with ex-Secretary Whitney and Daumont. Even United States Senators, who as well as members of the other house, sometimes find out how the wind is blowing.—[Louisville Times.]

Next Thursday (June 25) has been set apart by the K. of P. of Lexington to decorate the graves of their dead. The Transcript says: "Dr. J. W. Dryer, Henry Kruse and Jake Kruse were appointed a committee to solicit funds for the purpose."

Walter Kraljevich, also known as Kraljevich, buried in the Lexington cemetery. The Lexington Lodge is now the most flourishing one in the State and has a membership of 270. Several lodges in the State will be invited to attend and participate in the decoration service.

A bad cow epidemic is prevailing among cattle. A few days ago a mad dog bit a cow that soon began to show signs of rabies. Every precaution was taken to prevent a spread of the epidemic, but in a short time symptoms of the malady became manifest in other cattle. At the present time there are said to be twenty-five cows similarly affected and great alarm prevails. It is announced that when showing symptoms of the disease will be promptly shot.

The full ticket is nominated by the Ohio Republicans as follows: For Governor—William McKinley, Jr. For Lieutenant-Governor—A. L. Harris.

For State Auditor—E. W. Poe. For State Treasurer—W. T. Cope. For Attorney General—J. K. Richards.

For Member Board of Public Works—Charles E. Gross.

For Food Commissioner—F. B. McNeal.

For School Commissioners—O. T. Carson.

New York Herald of Monday: The Western man who plucked his tail as "for sail," when asked specifically when it would sail, replied, "As soon as anybody comes along who can raise the wind."

Wall street has been for some time in the position of that farm. It is ready to sell as soon as it becomes evident that speculators can "raise the wind" at low rates.

Yesterdays bank statement is the first important indication we have had that the wind is rising and unless unforeseen conditions shall develop at home or abroad, it is altogether probable that prices will sail.

Judge Montfort, of the Franklin Circuit Court, has set the trial of the cases of the Commonwealth against Tate's bondsmen for next Monday, and in order to take up the cases he has agreed to continue his court two weeks longer. The cases will be tried under the decision of the Court of Appeals, reversing the judgment of the Circuit Court on the first trial, and holding that the bondsmen, separately or together, are liable for the defalcation of Tate, but that the State in order to prove the liability must set out specifically the defalcation on each bond or on one or two bonds, in which the same or any one of the bondsmen sued may be the security.

The Air Ship.

Negotiations are complete whereby the machine-shops of the Pennington Air-Ship Company will be transferred from Mt. Carmel, Ill., and St. Louis to Burlington. Mr. E. J. Pennington, the inventor of the air-ship, has been in Burlington for the past week, negotiating with a number of prominent capitalists, and the result is that the company will be established at the Chicago Exposition Grounds, and will be exhibited at the Chicago Exposition.

Mr. Pennington is to be expected to fly for a week or less, and the Queen's Apartments to cover five acres, of Majesty 3, of an occurrence but weathered it for a more or less time.

Optical Compositions.

It was in the cars, whereon or later he who listens can hear every from declarations of the importance of the services of his neighbors, of tales of the glories to the lighted gates of the frivolous. Two women were chattering together of a funeral which they had been out of town to attend.

"Yes," one of them remarked, "I don't know when I've been to such a funeral."

"No," the other responded, "nor I."

"Don't you think that was a beautiful selection from Scripture?"

"Yes, beautiful."

"And isn't it two hours; weren't they appropriate?"

"Yes; there couldn't have been anything more appropriate."

"Well, the people chose 'em all."

The latest development of the automatic feed is a remarkable one, which makes it possible to have books fitted into the carriage. The volumes are presumably to be restored to the case at the end of the journey, but what is to prevent one passenger handing his book over to a neighbor, who is going on further? Not indeed would it be difficult for a traveler, with uncertain ideas on the subject of honesty, to carry away under his rug any especially intriguing tale that he had not time to finish in the train.—London Letter.

The Sacred Books.

The book of Lazarus is at the lower extremity of the spinal column. The Jewish rabbi taught that it was incomparable, and from it, from a seed, the human body would grow. The Jewish teacher, however, also believed that the Emperor Hadrian questioned a rabbi as to the existence of this bone, and was convinced by the production of one by the Jewish teacher. Various attempts were made to find the bone. It was said to have been found in the temple of Jerusalem.

The tanner of shooemaking in this country is said to have been one Abram Loring, who came over in the Mayflower, bringing with him a number of pets to be worked into foot-wear for the colonists.

Guy de Maupassant, the French author, a man of forty, a cynic and a bit bohemian. In manner he is eccentric and brusque even toward women. In his literary work he is a prodigy of industry.

While an Indianapolis citizen was riding on a street-car in that city the brake handle slipped from the driver's grasp and struck a pistol in the driver's breast pocket. A bullet from the weapon killed the passenger instantly. His wife has recovered $5,000 damages from the car company.

Young Mrs. Blaine's old trouble of inflammatory rheumatism, has not yet left her, and she still limps painfully. But her general health is much improved. When she passed through Dakota last week, on her way to Dakota, she was accompanied by her young son, who is now a sturdy and healthy little likeness of his disabled grandfather.

Two months ago an engineer on the Louisville, New Orleans & Texas road in the Jackson division, Mississippi, overcame difficulties than he had never imagined the engine and express, the best of its ability, great admiration for the engine. The engineer says that whenever his engine signals for a stop, it will bring all the gold he has exported since January back to our shores.

An old scissor-grinder who died at Goshen, Ind., the other day was said to be worth $1,000,000, though he was supposed to be poor and needy.

Desolated depredations in wrecked Philadelphia banks threaten to sue the Government for their losses, which they charge to the incapacity of Uncle Sam's sworn guardians of the people's rights.

It is reported to be a fancy of the fashionable girl that after wearing her long sleeve gloves three or four times she takes them to a shoemaker and has made from them a pair of slippers for her chosen admirer.

It is noted that the fish catch of the New England coast this year is equal to the promise of grain yield at the West. Every smack comes into port loaded to the guards, and 1851 bids fair to be a year of great prosperity.

Almon Fluores, a nephew of President Millard Fillmore, carries an old-fashioned open-faced gold-watch which belonged to his uncle. It is an English lever and seventy-five years ago was probably one of the most valuable watches in America.

In France the Government still taxes a tax on doors and windows. To the peasant in small hut this tax amount to a little more than three francs a year, but in the towns it rises to seventeen francs annually for each family.

The Kentucky State Teachers' Association will hold its annual meeting at Henderson June 24 to 26. An interesting and instructive programme has been prepared. The railroads will sell tickets on the 23d and 24 at fare for the round trip.

Chester, Pa., has a baby which is now three months old and its exact weight is thirty-two ounces avoirdupois. The baby has never worn any clothes, but is kept carefully wrapped up in cotton. It blinks its wee eyes and brows, and when it gets angry its cry is no louder than the weak wail of a kitten.

An assessor at Bucktown, Ind., called at the house of an old woman whose furniture was valued at fifty cents. Under the law he had to fix the value at $1, which would make her tax a fraction over one cent. Before leaving he discovered that the old dame was the owner of six dogs, which she was assessed at $1.

An eloping couple were traced recently in a peculiar way. A boarder had an affair with his landlady, and the husband of the woman, knowing of the boarder's fondness for colonies, gave that as a part of the description. When the couple were identified the man had a plate of the odorous vegetable before him.

The sword which Custer used in his campaign against the Indians, and which he lost with his life at the battle of Little Big Horn, is now in the possession of a Chicago man. Its battered blade is as flexible as whalebone, and looks as if it had been through many a hand-to-hand encounter. It is covered with innumerable designs of drama, flags, canons, and other implements of warfare.

A certain little girl, who is just learning to read short words, takes great interest in the big letters she sees in the newspapers. The other evening, after she had kept her mamma busy reading the advertisements in the newspapers to her, she knelt down to say her prayers. "Dear Lord," she lisped, "make my pure, then she hesitated, and went on, with added fervor, a moment later, "make my absolutely pure, like baking powder."

The census just taken gives Paris a population of 3,422,969 inhabitants. When the Reign of Terror began the population was about 666,000, but in 1798 it had been reduced by army conscriptions and political exiles to 475,756. No city in Europe has grown at a greater rate per cent., the population having been doubled one and a half times since 1846. The present population of London is 4,233,921, only a million less than the population of the State of Pennsylvania, and nearly half a million greater than that of Illinois, the third State of the Union. Berlin has a population of 1,500,000; St. Petersburg, 956,226, and Vienna, 869,440.—[London Times.]

It is stated that the Kansas wheat crop this year will yield the enormous quantity of 53,000,000 bushels, which is many millions above the average. When it is recalled that several States are ahead of Kansas in the production of wheat, it would seem that the estimate of 52,000,000 bushels for the total crop of 1891 is not extravagant. The enormous production of cotton last year and its decline in price, consequent on the abundance of the crop occasioned a considerable increase of grain acreage at the South, and as a consequence a greater percentage of the crop distinctly wheat-growing States will be exported. This, no doubt, will bring all the gold we have exported since January back to our shores.
